C. A. Caron has returned from the bakers' convention held in Boston last week. The convention opened with a ball at the Brunswick hotel. There were about 200 bakers present at the convention and every man was sent away with something useful to the baker's experiences. The sugar question was discussed at length by Mr. Sherburn of Boston, who has given the sugar question a study for the past year or so. His statements paralleled those recently made through the papers and that was that the sugar shortage at present was only a scare to the dealers and consumers, that millions of pounds are now in the process of raising and that the situation would be relieved almost immediately and certainly by the first of January there would be plenty, with a possible raise of two cents a pound, pending the removal of government control. Mr. Woolley of the Fleischmann Yeast company spoke, and gave a demonstration showing the use of bread as a food and proving its superior value to any other food produced. The flour question was discussed very little, as only a few bakers in the New England association have any trouble in getting plenty. The convention closed with a banquet at the Brunswick hotel.

The Burlington and Montpelier lodges were also represented. After the meeting the knights enjoyed one of those series of lunches which have been served during the summer and fall. The lunch consisted of steamed clams and fixings.

Miss Marion Keeler, Vermont's brilliant young coloratura soprano, who is to sing at the Barre opera house Tuesday evening, Nov. 11, under the auspices of the Barre Woman's club, is charming in her personality as well as in her voice and she appeals to her audiences because of her daintiness and her girlish mannerisms on the stage. Miss Marjory Crabbe, who is to give interpretative dances, has been studying under the best instructors in Chicago. Tickets, 50c each; on sale at box office Saturday afternoon, Nov. 8, at 2:30.—adv.

Sergeant Richard Hoar, son of Attorney and Mrs. Richard Hoar of 21 East street, is back from France. Was he wounded? Not at all, and that was the best of a rough sea which piled 32 beds in a heap one dark and stormy night Dick would have returned without a scratch. As it is, he has a rather bad scratch under the right eye, received in trying to stop a hunk from hitting the side of the ship. That same storm threw the ship off its course 60 miles and in the meantime tossed it about so much that water poured in the stacks, which for a time made the veterans of the world war wish they were back in the trenches pulling their feet out of the mud. But, regardless of this 48-hour storm, Sergeant Hoar, together with a great many more cooks—for it must be remembered that Dick's last days in France were spent roasting chickens for the other soldiers, which of course all cooks have to do—arrived safely in Hoboken, N. J., on the good ship Edison on Oct. 29. When the bells and whistles were blowing on that 7th day of April in 1917, calling all the soldiers of Headquarters company together, Dick Hoar was right there in the front ranks, and when the company went to Fort Ethan Allen he was still in the ranks. After being trained for a time he went to Camp Bartlett, then to Camp Wadsworth, and, lastly, to Camp Merritt. From there he prepared for the overseas journey and with the 57th Infantry, formerly known as the 1st Vermont Infantry, he set sail for France, arriving there Oct. 7, 1918. For a time he was in Brest, Le Mans, Foulaine and Ekomme, but returned to Brest after the armistice was signed, assigned to the 1st cook company. Ever since last Dec. 13 he has been stationed in Brest. But now he has been honorably discharged with a service record of two years and a half and he arrived home last evening at 4:35. He will need no cautions for his right arm for a few days, as that has been pretty busy since his arrival, receiving the welcome of many friends.

WAITSFIELD

Truck Damaged by Fire—Powder and Loaded Shells Not Reached.

The older of the two Kissel trucks, owned and operated by J. A. Smith, caught fire coming from Middlesex yesterday afternoon, and was so badly damaged that it was deemed unfit for repairs. The engine and radiator were practically ruined. The accident occurred about three miles below Moretown, between the bridge which crosses the river to the Armstrong place and the white schoolhouse. The truck was heavily loaded with merchandise, in which were cases of powder and loaded shells, which, however, the fire did not reach, and all the goods were saved. Herbert Smith was driving the car. The cause is considered to have been a leakage in the gas pipe directly over the heater exhaust.

Mark Baird has gone to Windsor, where he has an excellent position as herdsman on the farm of the Kennedy Biscuit company.

Griffith & Noll have moved into the east end of their block, pending repairs to the main store, from the recent fire damage.

Dr. and Mrs. F. S. Kent are moving into their new home, which they purchased of S. P. Joslin.

Clarence Pettis, who has been sick with the grip, is able to be out, and has begun to drive the stage again.

VERSHIRE

The many friends of Mrs. Henry Mattson are sorry to learn of her health being so poor as to necessitate her having to go to Waterbury for treatment.

Mrs. Henry Parker and Mrs. E. O. Bradbury recently visited Mrs. Tucker of Hanover.

Mrs. Don Orr was in Chelsea Monday.

The library was opened formally on Monday evening for the first time in years. Rev. Mr. Dierlam was in charge. Mr. Dierlam seems to be a worker, during the week as well as Sunday.

Miss Faye Blake of Corinth is working at W. H. Orr's.

Miss Roberta Brock's sister is visiting her.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Picken and Mr. and Mrs. C. Blanchard from Wilder were in town last week.

Fred Straw, Leon Avery, Mr. Moffett and C. Cutler are helping Mr. Stacy move to Barre.

The farewell party on Oct. 23 for Mr. and Mrs. Stacy was a very enjoyable evening. Mr. Stacy's people have gone to their new home, much to the regret of their many friends.

The party to celebrate the 21st birthday of Leon Tuller was a very pleasant affair. He was presented a nice cow and $50 by his parents, and Mr. Tuller's people gave Florence Webster a nice heifer on her 18th birthday.

A gathering to remind Miss Thelma Lynch of her 18th birthday was much enjoyed.

Miss Mary O'Day has finished work at George Stacy's and is working for Mrs. John Sleeper.

C. C. Luce's brother and a friend are visiting in town.
